

MENTORING WORKSHOP and LECTURES

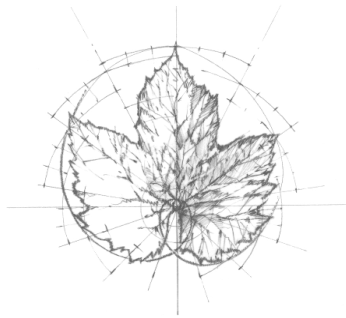

Wednesday, October 3, 2007

Presenters:

Anita Lehmann, illustrator and architect and City Views participant and

Sheri Brockway, VCC graduate and architect of YVCC's new Glenn-Anthon Building

Schedule:

9 – Noon – Drawing workshop

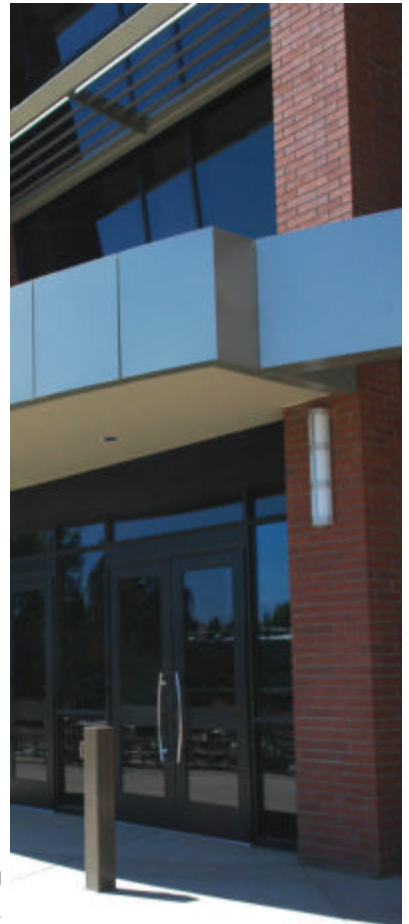

presented by Anita Lehmann with YVCC art students in Palmer Hall

1:30 – 3:00pm: Lectures

by Anita Lehmann and Sheri Brockway in the Parker Room of Deccio Hall – Open to the public. Free

3:30 – 4:00pm: Tour

of new building hosted by the architect: Sheri Brockway

The Larson Gallery is pleased to present our "Mentoring Day" that includes Seattle architect and illustrator: Anita Lehmann whose artwork appears in the City Views exhibition and Yakima architect Sheri Brockway. The Gallery is working with YVCC in bringing professional on campus and connecting with students in a motivational atmosphere as they encourage young people to pursue careers in creative fields such as architecture and illustration. Both of the presenters evidence a high level of professional accomplishments and their lectures will both inform as well as stimulate students and the general public about their career paths.

working with YVCC in bringing professional on campus and connecting with students in a motivational atmosphere as they encourage young people to pursue careers in creative fields such as architecture and illustration. Both of the presenters evidence a high level of professional accomplishments and their lectures will both inform as well as stimulate students and the general public about their career paths.

The drawing workshop is open to YVCC students only, but the public is invited to attend the lectures. For more information, call the Gallery at: 574 – 4875.